Insights

Transforming ESG plans into tangible results

11 September 2024

Today, businesses are compelled to prioritize ESG in their commercial and investment strategies. Stakeholders, including investors, customers, employees, and regulators, expect responsible and sustainable operations and that organizations develop a clear blueprint for achieving ESG objectives. Boards recognize the benefits of integrating ESG into their decision-making as an organization's social license may depend on it.

Tightening the noose on greenwashing 3 April 2024

Greenwashing is a serious crime because it creates the illusion that more is being done to combat climate change than is the case, hampering anti-global warming efforts to the detriment of humanity. Unless they are unmasked, the culprits enjoy the reputational and financial rewards of the phony green sheen they have applied to their operations.

Unlocking private sector investment in power transmission

2 August 2023

Thanks to new renewable power projects coming online, Kenya's generation capacity now exceeds 3,000 MW. This success is partly attributable to investments from Independent Power Producers.

Will beneficial ownership rules curb tenders graft?

14 June 2022

In many countries, public procurement has for a long time been considered one of the areas most prone to manipulation and fraud. Kenya is no exception and there have been allegations of public officials and their cronies creating and winning bids at inflated prices.

Time is ripe for public-private management of national parks 20 December 2021

Long before the pandemic wreaked havoc on the tourism sector, protected areas such as national parks, game reserves and wildlife sanctuaries in Kenya were already grappling with the challenges of underfunding.
