Doe Tsikata has been in legal practice for over 34 years. She has extensive dispute resolution experience, representing clients before all the superior courts of Ghana as well as other bodies such as the National Labour Commission. She has advised clients on a wide range of employment law issues including redundancies, terminations and employee benefits and represented them in collective bargaining negotiations with labour unions. She has advised clients in the real estate business on construction contracts and clients in the hospitality business on management and marketing agreements with international hotel groups and regulatory issues relating to them.

Her clients include major multinational mining companies, banks, insurance companies and hotel companies.

Doe has a keen interest in the development of the law and she co-authored the International Council for Commercial Arbitration Handbook Country Report for Ghana for 2018 and contributed a chapter to Chambers and Partners' Anti-corruption Global Practice Guide for 2017.

She has also contributed to articles on the use of restrictive covenants in employment contracts in Ghana, an employment law guide titled "From Recruitment to Retirement across Africa" and "What a New Investor Should Consider When Entering the Ghanaian Property Market."
